Holt's New Virtual File Cabinet DVD is a Single Source for Thousands of Math Resources that Complement Holt California Mathematics

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. – November 2, 2007 — California math teachers need not comb through stacks of boxes, file cabinets, and CD's to find worksheets, tests, and multimedia files thanks to a new resource from Holt, Rinehart and Winston (www.hrw.com). Holt's latest product to make a teacher's life more organized is a robust Virtual File Cabinet on DVD. This searchable tool is chocked full of everything from assessments to videos – essentially every resource published by Holt for each California curriculum product and textbook family.

Teachers access the Virtual File Cabinet through a single selection screen and choose any type of resource by keyword, chapter, resource type, or California state standard. The result is a quick list of resources fitting their selection criteria with a description, notes, textbook chapter, standard, and whether Spanish versions are available. By clicking on any item, a preview screen shows the actual resource with options to print or alter the descriptions for future reference.

Having an option to select by state standard is especially helpful as teachers look for materials that will address specific skills and standards required in state assessments. “The Virtual File Cabinet gives California math teachers access to and tools for easy management of a wealth of resources built to support their state standards,” said Allen Wheatcroft, president of Holt. “Using the Virtual File Cabinet, teachers will be able to differentiate instruction with deep resources for all their students. And they will have the confidence of knowing which California standards are covered in those resources.”

In addition to the thousands of Holt-supplied materials, teachers can add their own resources, and they can assign standards, keywords, and notes to make those resources searchable along with the Holt materials. This feature makes the Virtual File Cabinet a collaborative resource that can be shared in a department or across a district.

Currently, California teachers who are using Holt mathematics programs for middle or high school can order a Virtual File Cabinet DVD to complement that particular curriculum. The Virtual File Cabinet will be featured by Holt at the California Mathematics Council Conference in Palm Springs on November 2 and 3.
